

WaveSoft Technology to be Embedded into the PICO-POS Terminal

Vancouver, BC – April 10, 2013 – WaveSoft Technologies, a leading developer of mobile point of sale applications, recently announced a partnership with Ultra Systems Inc., allowing their PICO-POS product to license WaveSoft technology. WaveSoft’s software will now be embedded into the PICO-POS point of sale terminal.

The PICO-POS unit is designed for independent and enterprise retailers or restaurateurs who need a compact, robust and cost effective POS system. It features an 8” touch screen and offers a secure and stable flash-ROM system so that businesses never need to worry about their POS systems being abused or compromised.

With the growing popularity of smartphones and tablet PCs, restaurants and retail stores are seeing a convergence of mobile, cloud and desktop solutions. PICO-POS has embraced mobile and cloud technologies with their PICO-CLOUD services. Users can create a PLU, perform a price change and view sales reports in real-time directly from their smartphones or any Internet ready devices. While the PICO-CLOUD delivers an extremely convenient and open accessibility for PICO-POS functions, PICO-POS does not rely on the Internet to operate. It is a true Win/CE based standalone system which can be operated entirely offline.

“We are very excited about partnering WaveSoft’s software with PICO-POS,” stated Wilson Chao, CEO of WaveSoft. “Although the latest cloud technology gives many appealing functions to users, we wanted to provide customers with a POS solution that had cloud as an option rather than a mandatory feature. By partnering with PICO-POS, we have developed exactly that.”

PICO-POS can be purchased with a one-time fee or on a subscription-based model with a minimum monthly fee. It will be available worldwide on April 15th and U.S. shipping is scheduled to be released on May 1st.
